Gasoline Can Clues Found In Wreckage Of County Line Bars After Fires

Fire marshal, who lead on who had seen the "county line" a sudden series of fires Sunday night.

There has been no announcement but the Echo learned that fire investigators sent from the state to probe the fires found no clues. They found no clues. They found no clues.

And it was also learned from a source that the fire had a lead on who may have touched off the blaze.

There has been no announcement but the Echo learned that fire investigators sent from the state to probe the fires found no clues. They found no clues. They found no clues.

But fire investigators had a lead on who may have touched off the blaze.

The blaze was touched off Sunday night, and by Monday morning the places—still smoking—were down to the ground. If they were insured.

Some Bay St. Louis sources affected. The estimated damage, $6,000 worth of appliances in the places, and it could not be insured, either.

In all, seven buildings were burned. Four white and one gro bar were involved. The two were smaller buildings. An automobile also was burned.

Sheriff Egloff said he understood that the evidence the deputies discovered would be hard to track down.

"They found a gasoline can in one place," he said, "but it was so badly burned that nothing could be distinguished—not even paint on the cans."

The fires were separate fires and not one fire that spread. Nothing burned between the places—only the buildings themselves.

The places which were burned were "Three Oaks," "Elmwood," "Half-Way" and "Whitfield's."

Waggoner Praises Legion For Activities

Sam H. Waggoner, 11, commander of the Mississippi American Legion paid tribute to the members of the Clement B. Post 139 in his speech here Sunday night in the American Legion hall.

Waggoner, who combined his speaking appointment with a visit to the state capital, was sponsored by the local group. He specially praised the blood donor plan now being boosted by the Legionnaires.

"This project for saving human lives," he said, "is one of which you may be proud."

The meeting of the Legion was designated "Cameron Night" in honor of Captain "Haywood" Cameron of Kiln, the returned prisoner of war. Cameron has transferred his membership in the American Legion to this post.

EMERGENCY APPEAL FOR BLOOD IS MADE AFTER A CLOSE CALL

An emergency appeal for blood donors was made by the American Legion and the Lions Club yesterday as a result of a new emergency which arose in Bay St. Louis Wednesday.

The Legion is conducting a campaign to list blood donors. But emergencies arise before this campaign can be completed.

In a joint statement, Cliff Parke, Lions' president and Lucien Kidd, American Legion commander, said: "If you hold a Red Cross Blood Donors card or know your blood type, please phone 9138 or 449 immediately."

"This appeal is made today because of another emergency case that arose Wednesday afternoon, requiring an immediate blood transfusion. Donors were secured in time, but after considerable effort."

Contact with the Bay St. Louis Red Cross office produced several more names, but, the Red Cross, because of regulations at this time, are unable to give out a complete list of possible blood donors, or their types. If you will telephone one of the above numbers, you will help to set up a master list, available to anyone, day or night. Emergencies keep on happening, and the next one could be in your family."

John McDonald, president of the Hancock County Red Cross, explained that the Red Cross list cannot be released without the permission of the individual donors. These people actually did not sign up to give blood regularly. They signed up to donate blood once, and they did so.

The Red Cross is now contacting them, Mr. McDonald said, asking them if they are willing to release their names to the Legion drive. If they are willing, he will release the names.

Meanwhile, a meeting of committees for the Blood Donor List was called for 8 p. m. Monday at the Legion Home.

Committee Chairmen of the Masonic Organization, the Bay High School, the Rotary Club, the Knights of Columbus, and the Chamber of Commerce will attend.

Although he is reported to have had a slight dizzy spell last Thursday, the Mayor's condition is steadily improving. Transfusions have stopped and he is building up his own blood supply.

City May Not Be Able To Halt L & N Trains

City officials are trying to contact the Mayor of Durant, Miss. in order to find out why that town lost its suit against the railroad, Commissioner Sylvan Ladner said today.

The state supreme court overruled a decision of the circuit court, Ladner said, and claimed that passenger trains did not have to stop in a county seat.

Presently, Bay St. Louis is threatening to bring suit against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in order to have that company halt all of its trains here.

L. & N. superintendent M. R. Black expressed confidence at an earlier date that the law which is on the civil code books would not apply in making them halt all of their trains here.

Durant officials tried to have their railroad halt its trains. The circuit ruled that trains must stop there if the town was a county seat.

However, the supreme court overruled that decision.

Ladner said he and acting Mayor Cyril Glover are trying to contact the Mayor of Durant to find out of the circumstances involved in their suit was similar to the conditions here.

Up to now, Ladner said, they have not been able to contact the mayor.

The L. & N. has not yet replied to a resolution of the city that it comply with the law making trains halt here.

Ladner Urges Registration

The urgent necessity of registration by the voters of this city was stressed by secretary of state Healey Ladner, who spoke to a group of approximately 45 persons at a league of women voters meeting last Thursday evening.

It was pointed out by league representatives at the meeting that one of the main problems to be settled here in the matter of voters falling to register in the proper precinct once an address is changed.

St. Stanislaus, Biloxi Vie Tonight There

Stanislaus meets Biloxi tonight at Biloxi after a two week lay-off, but season-long injuries plague the Rock hopes of a victory.

Biloxi has won four, lost 2 and tied one to present a better record than the once-victorious Stanislaus team.

Stanislaus has not played since their homecoming game when the Reserve Wildcats took their toll.

Top loss to the Rocks will be A. J. Burke who was injured in the Reserve contest. Other side-liners on the Stanislaus squad include veteran guard Maurice Ar-tigue, Frank Constantino and Charlie Langley.

This leaves the Rock backfield riddled. Five of the injured boys were offensive stars.

Stanislaus has now won one and lost five.

Bay High, Demons Fail To Get Together

Bay High was supposed to play last week. But they didn't. Schedule confusion seemed to be the cause.

Thursday night the Demonstration Demons from Hattisburg came to town ready to play.

But Bay High said no. The game was supposed to be Friday and they weren't ready to play.

Well, in that case, Demonstration said, we won't come back and play Friday.

So the game was called since the two teams wouldn't be in town on the same night.

Bay High now will try to get more than an even break on their won and lost record against New Orleans Academy here Friday at Stanislaus field. Most of the Tiger team is in good shape except for Tommy Holden who broke his arm earlier in the season.

Bay High has two wins and two losses. The Tigers figured to gain their third win against Demonstration, since the Demons were in poor shape.

Bay High will be favored over N. O. A. which is in the Riverside League in New Orleans.

The Boy Scouts of America are planning a series of conservation projects in compliance with President Eisenhower's request that in 1954, they undertake "to arouse public recognition of the need for adequate protection and wise management of our soil, water, mineral, forest, grassland, and wildlife resources." Arthur A. Schuck, chief scout executive, welcomes the cooperation of all conservation groups, the Wildlife Management Institute reports.

Ed P. Ortle while fishing from the Bayou Caddy Fishing Camp at the South end of the Beach Road caught a 7 1/4 lb. 9 1/2 ounce speckled trout, which measured 26 and 3/4 inches. According to Ed who is a co-owner of the Legion Theatre at Gulfport he used a slaughter pole with live bait. The fish has been on display in a block of ice in front of the Legion Theatre since Monday.

Joe Kern repeated his feat of a couple of weeks ago by landing another 25-pound red fish. Joe says its getting monotonous catching these large ones - especially when they are too big to eat.

Pete Porter, Jr., and Latham Garriga really bagged some squirrels over the weekend. Let us know where they are, Pete.

For those who like floundering here's news - several were speared this week out in front of the Bay. Among those after them were Ed, Alton and Harold Carver.

County Tax To Remain At 27 Mills

Tax millage in Hancock County will remain the same as it was last year at 25 mills for county expenses and 2 mills for the city. In a budget report which appears in Section Three of this week's Echo, the Board of Supervisors indicate that expenditures this year will be approximately the same as last year. Total revenues needed to be raised by the tax levy amount to $147,326.45. Of this amount the largest single item will be the General Fund at $104,526.45. This includes office, administrative, legal, judiciary and miscellaneous items. Each county will obtain 7 mills or $6700 for its road and bridge funds from the tax levy. The actual passage on the millage by the Board of Supervisors was expected today, according to Clerk of Courts A. C. Mitchell.

A short stroll through some of the Bay St. Louis stores will produce for you a bag full of new tricks for conjuring up a fine Thanksgiving table.

At Kern's Fixe and Ten and just about everything store, ten cents will buy a card of facing pins for your turkey. These are long slender, nail-like objects designed to slip through the open side of the bird. Around the pins goes the lacing cord and inside, where it belongs, stays the stuffing.

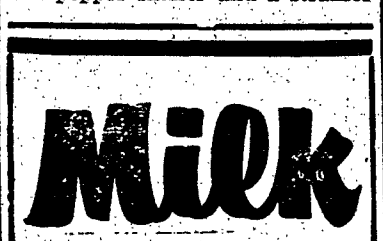

Also at Kern's you'll find an oven thermometer for 39 cents, a pretty good investment unless you already have an accurate means of telling how fast your turkey is cooking.

Salad molds are five cents at Kern's. The salad is one of the few items on your Thanksgiving dinner or party menu that can be made ahead of time. The small molds can be tucked around in the tiniest empty spots in the refrigerator too.

If you don't have a set of the airtight salt and pepper shakers around the house by now, you may well go ahead and buy a pair for 30 cents at Kern's, because the longer you wait, the more you'll wonder at your own oversight.

These have a moisture absorbing top which keeps the seasonings flowing rapidly in spite of the prevailing dampness. They're so handy to have you'll find yourself slipping them on the table when you thought you were going to haul out the family heirlooms.

At Bay Mercantile is another small item no kitchen should be without in this season of good eating coming up. It's a vegetable peeler, a carrot peeler in particular, and it costs 15 cents. This little gadget is shaped something like a large needle and does the job of scraping a carrot or a potato with dispatch. And more important, hardly any of the carrot or potato is lost in the process—thinnest peeling job you ever did. This same store also has for $1.29 stove set composed of salt and pepper shaker and a strainer.

Doctors say milk helps build strong young bodies, keeps energy high. Try our richer, better tasting milk daily.

A Point Of Pride

A lot of kids got into trouble on Halloween. Some may have started on the road to genuine crime. But none of this happened in Bay St. Louis.

Few communities take care of their youth in such fine style. The Lions Club Halloween fête was a splendid way of giving the kids their traditional fun in a harmless way. The Youth Center is a constant attraction for youngsters who might otherwise be roaming the streets and filtering into the wrong places.

Bigger towns and richer towns have failed where Bay St. Louis has succeeded. The Lions—headed by President Cliff Farke and Party Chairman, Warren Carver—deserve a big vote of thanks for this community. The Youth Center deserves thanks—and financial support.

Genuine Interest

A United States senator spoke at Bay St. Louis Friday—and it cost money to hear his talk. Now that's something really unusual—paying to hear a politician make a speech.

Yet the turnout at the Reed Hotel was little short of tremendous. Sen. Stennis gave an interesting and stirring talk. His excuses for the present administration's admitted failures may have been a little weak, but he talked with clarity and sincerity.

The key to it all was not so much his speech, as the great interest Bay St. Louis showed in it. Perhaps this is a tipoff. Perhaps more noted persons should be brought here for talks.

With Thanks

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce elected a new board of directors, and voted thanks to those leaving office—H. H. Shattuck, Dan Russell, A. C. Mitchell and Kenneth Whitfield. These men did a fine job. The ceremony dedicating the new bridge was a highlight. "Dollar Days" were inaugurated, quite successfully, under their administration.

But there's lots more to be done by the new crew—Alden Maufrey, Ben Hille, Joseph Scharf and Lambert T. Boyd, Jr.

Mothers Group Holds Party

The Mothers committee of Sister Maria's first grade group entertained 35 children with a gala black and orange Halloween party on the school lawn Friday afternoon.

The mothers, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. C. J. Piazza, Mrs. Lorraine Camors and Mrs. Mary Arnold, saw that every detail of the occasion was carried out in the holiday colors. There was a refreshment table decorated with black and orange. For refreshments, the youngsters had small oranges in pumpkin baskets, black and orange cakes and candy. The pop consisted of cokes and orange drinks.

Mrs. Ealine Colson was in charge of games for the children. A large play ghost was a highlight when it was opened to reveal balloons for the children. The grab bag provided flavors of small pumpkins, containing a ball, toy dog and balloon.

The mothers presented Sister Maria with a large box of homemade cookies as her gift for the occasion.

Shaw Heads

State Group

The Mississippi Board of Supervisors, the magazine about state county leaders, carried a picture and story about the election of Johnson Shaw to the chairmanship of the executive committee of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

Shaw, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, was named at the 24th annual convention of the group at the Buena Vista Hotel September 29. Approximately 300 supervisors attended the meeting.

Shaw was a member of the executive committee last year.

COASTING

By ANNE ORLEANS

What is Southern Hospitality? Congenial guests, pleasant entertainment, an attractive home background, flowers every where, delicious refreshments. All of these plus the charm that comes naturally to the perfect host and hostess with the Southern accent. These essentials assured the success of the delightful party given by Becky and Ernest Allgeyer last Friday—one of several parties they have planned. The house was crowded and there were so many guests who had lived in New Orleans that you had the feeling of being back in the Crescent City.

Among the guests who were invited to the Allgeyer party was a New Orleans doctor who had never been to their home. Where did he go for the party? Jefferson Davis Parkway in New Orleans instead of Jeff Davis Avenue in Waveland. Almost too good to be true.

Mrs. James Robert all dressed up with an orchid corsage on her return from New Orleans. She was one of the honored out of town guests at the Orleans Club luncheon given by Mrs. Rufus Harris, wife of the President of Tulane University. This was one of the many entertainments during Tulane's Homecoming Week, climaxed by the Army (O) - Tulane (O) game. What a game! Dean Robert, formerly head of Tulane's Engineering Department, is still part of many of the university's activities.

After some hard house hunting, Betty Lacouture has taken the Shalcross house for herself and the children while John is on sea duty. They take possession in January. The house is just a short distance from the home of Gladys and Peter Monroe, Betty's mother and father.

The Ben Holises at Twin Pines for a three day visit after having missed several week ends.

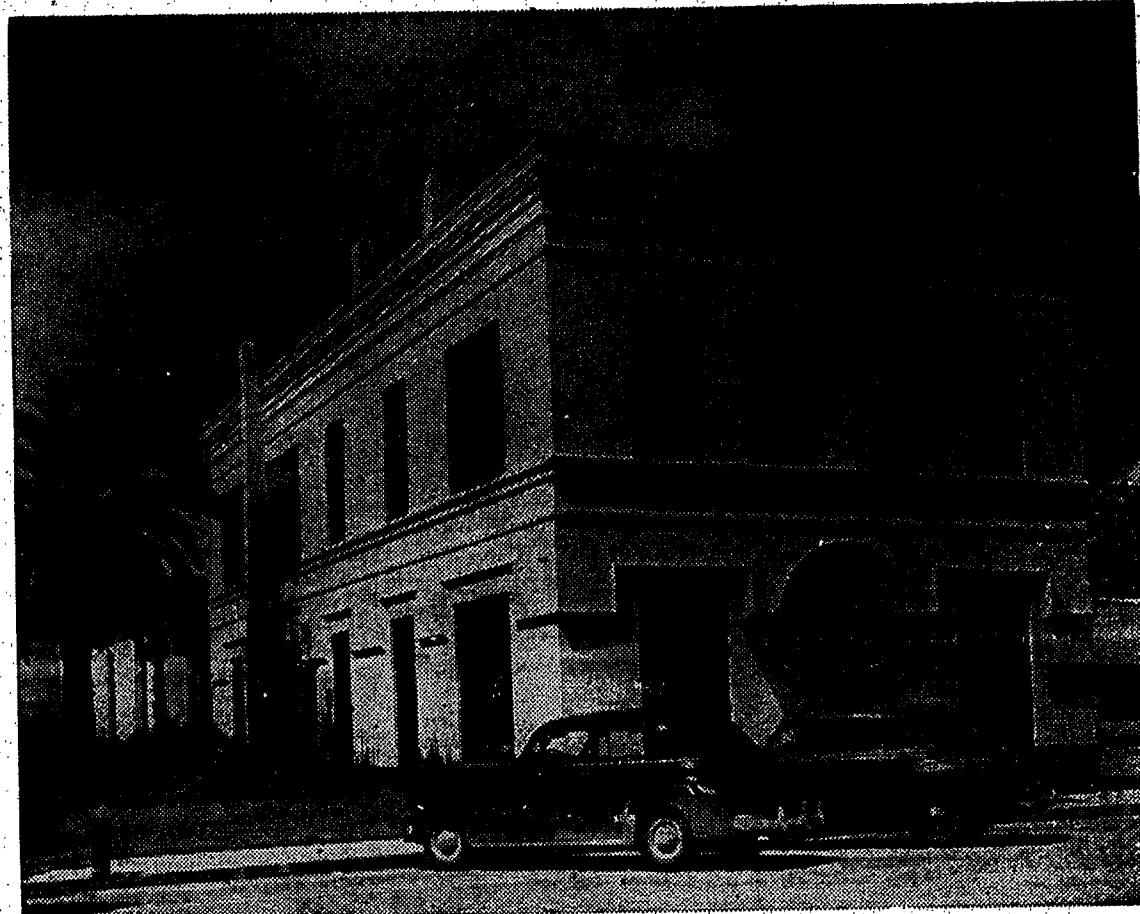

Treading the glamour path these days are Harry and Sidney Lee Hardin. As President of the Dock Board, Harry is usually on the welcoming committees for the V.I.P.s visiting New Orleans. One of the most enjoyable parties they attended during the Centennial celebration of Louisiana Purchase was the dinner given at a downtown hotel in New Orleans where 900 guests were present. The guest table where all the foreign ambassadors and ministers sat was covered with a cloth of gold decorated with amilax. Instead of place cards, a small flag of his country marked the place for each honored foreign representative.

The Hardins' next glamour contact will be with royalty, King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece, who will be guests of the Dock Board for a tour of the Harbor of New Orleans on the yacht THE GOOD NEIGHBOR and also for a luncheon.

Visiting Bay St. Louis are Mrs. H. H. Shattuck, Dan Russell, A. C. Mitchell and Kenneth Whitfield. These men did a fine job. The ceremony dedicating the new bridge was a highlight. "Dollar Days" were inaugurated, quite successfully, under their administration.

But there's lots more to be done by the new crew—Alden Maufrey, Ben Hille, Joseph Scharf and Lambert T. Boyd, Jr.

Realistic Security

Though the popular urge is for personal security we live in dangerous times with the world divided into two camps—one striving to make men free, the wage the battle is between freedom and tyranny.

Our pursuit of security may be an attempt to escape from reality for there is no such thing as absolute security. We should not kid ourselves into believing that "cradle to the grave" schemes can shelter us from life's hazards. Campaigns for "sharing the wealth," "soaking the rich" end up socking the poor. Government has no source of wealth or income except what it takes away from the people in taxes.

Of course security is a good thing, to provide security for ourselves and protection for our families we buy insurance and put money in bonds and savings. In addition to Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, and Unemployment Compensation, there are some 14,000 private pension plans now in force covering nearly 10 million persons, and 85 million persons carry hospital insurance.

This nation advanced by plowing back into our economy our surplus savings to provide increased production and added employment, until the purchasing power of the average American worker has become ten times as much as that of the average worker in the rest of the world.

It was through venture capital, taking a chance, rather than through security that America waxed strong. And if too much of the nation's wealth is syphoned off in schemes to make it easier for us too much is used to relieve the rest of the world's distress, we could be building insecurity.

Whenever a nation sets its heart on security instead of placing its hope on risks it is in the early stages of social and economic decay. Assuming leadership in a distraught world, we need to set the realistic example of replacing fear with faith, paternalism with personal initiative and to substitute the spirit of venture for the empty promise of security.

America became great through the industry and thrift of its people. And nothing can take the place of individual initiative, self-reliance and collective courage in providing security for ourselves, our children and the Republic. There is no substitute for economy.

7½ Years—4½ Times as Many Rural Telephones in Mississippi

A FARM BOY is handed the receiver of a new rural telephone—a scene that has been repeated ever so many times during recent years as telephone people worked to extend service to the farming areas of our State.

In just 7½ years, the number of Southern Bell rural telephones in Mississippi has increased from 8,335 to more than 38,000. In other words, we now have 4½ times as many rural telephones as we had at the end of 1945.

We're continuing to push more lines into the State's rural areas every month. During the whole of 1953, we expect to spend over 2½ million dollars for rural construction; and the total number of additional rural telephones for the year will exceed 5,000.

And, as 1953 draws to a close, we're making plans for another big rural construction year in 1954.

High News

Harriel's fifth grade had of assembly Friday morning. The entire group sang "Hail to the Chief."

The play presented was "Fairy Witch." The characters were: Princess, Gloria Meyer; Woodcutter, Leo Bernhardt; Gail Higgins; Cat, Carol; Ghost, Jimmy Gibbs; Pumpkin, James Walters; Big Pumpkin, Douglas Saucier; Announcer, John Furey.

Last Friday all the elementary grades had Halloween parties in their rooms. Much fun and excitement was enjoyed by all.

The Halloween spooks and goblins have departed and the students of the eighth grade, with their sponsor, Miss Parker, are planning to redecorate their class rooms for the forthcoming Thanksgiving season. With attractive bulletin boards, black boards, and some new plants and greenery they hope to make their classrooms more attractive.

THE MODEL CLUB

At the activity period Tuesday morning the Eighth Grade boys, with their sponsor, Miss Parker, organized a "Model Club." The following officers were elected: President, Grady Perkins; Vice-President, Mike Demoran; Secretary, Raymond Strong. The purpose of the club is to make model airplanes, boats, cars, etc. The club will meet at the activity period on Monday and Wednesday of each week. The president appointed a program committee, Seth Crippen, Donald Byrd and Pat Glover. These boys will plan the programs for a month then another committee will be appointed. Miss Parker hopes that the club will not only make model airplanes but help to make, "model boys as well."

The library wishes to thank Mrs. Robert Blenven for the most generous donation of several volumes of fiction, to the school's shelves. The books are current and by many famous authors, such as Daphne Du Maurier and Edna Ferber. Now that book report time is rolling around again, the boys and girls will appreciate these new additions.

SOCIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

On Wednesday of last week the social science classes were shown an instructional film "Backfire" furnished by the Mississippi Economic Council. This film was well adapted to classroom use and presented an actual experiment which proved that the theory of Karl Marx cannot work out to the advantage of the individual.

Mr. S. J. Ingram, Superintendent of the Bay St. Louis Public Schools, appeared on the program of District P. T. A. last Friday morning to discuss safety education in schools with special emphasis on Driver Education for high school students. This talk was made at the request of Mr. A. P. Smith, member of the State Department of Education and who is head of the Safety Traffic Division in Mississippi.

SLC HOMECOMING

Homecoming Day 1953 at Southeastern Louisiana College will have a full schedule of events, when students, alumni, and friends of the college celebrate the occasion Saturday, at Hammond.

LIVESTOCK WORM CONTROL

Controlling stomach worms in calves and pigs will make already scarce food go farther. Now is a good time to get rid of these worms.

Stomach worms cause most damage in calves four to 18 months of age. They cause lack of growth, loss of weight, rough hair coat and occasionally cause swelling under the throat.

Control them with phenothiazine. It can be given the calves in feed, as a capsule or as a liquid. Directions for dosing are on the container.

Weaned pigs should be treated for roundworms using sodium fluoride. The sodium fluoride should be given in dry feed. An additional treatment should be given seven weeks after the first.

Cheek with your Agricultural Extension Service county agent for specific details on controlling these pests.

ASTURES
Ryegrass is one of the best plants to have growing with clover next spring. Planted this late a poor stand usually results when it is sown out on top of the ground. It will pay to cover the seed one-half inch to one inch deep.

Ryegrass fits especially well with white clover or reseeded crimson clover.

Oats planted now on prepared land will give a grain crop or good spring grazing provided we do not have an unusually cold winter. The oats can be planted out on sod land that has been set aside for sod planting.

Agronomists of the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station recommend reduced rates of nitrogen on small grains planted this late due to a reduced fall growing season.

Fields which have not mineralized clover areas this fall are advised to do so immediately. When young clover plants are not dry, potash and phosphate are likely to burn them. Make sure that your young clover, if it is up, is dry before you top dress.

HEALTH THROUGH CHIROPRACTIC

By Dr. L. A. Nelson

Many persons incline to think of chiropractic as beneficial only in case involving injury, backache or "nervous disorders." On the contrary, chiropractic has proved successful in a wide range of diseases. Some of the more common diseases which respond favorably under chiropractic care include: anemia, appendicitis, arthritis, asthma, constipation, diabetes, diphtheria, gall bladder disorders, chronic headaches, heart trouble, high and low blood pressure, kidney and liver disorders, neuritis, paralysis, pneumonia, polio, sciatica, sinusitis, stomach disorders, tonsillitis, and all so-called childhood diseases.

All these diseases and many more, have one underlying cause in common—an abnormal nerve supply to the affected organ or part of the body. The abnormal nerve supply is the result of slight displacements of the vertebrae of the spine which cause pressure on the nerves supplying the affected organ.

The chiropractor goes directly to the source of the trouble and by scientific spinal adjustments, corrects the displacements. Thus, normal nerve supply is restored and nature heals the diseased organ.

SJA Mothers Give Prize To School

St. Joseph's Academy, which has been working toward a 100 per cent membership drive for its mothers' club, has so nearly reached this goal, the mothers' group decided at a meeting this week to give the winner's prize to the whole school, in the form of two parties.

Originally the prize was to have been a party for the classroom gaining most members for the Mothers' Club. By this week the sixth through the 12 grades had reached 100 per cent membership and only a few representative mothers had failed to send in dues in the lower grades.

The parties will be given for the grammar grades on Friday, Nov. 12 and a dance will be held for the high school on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Those present at the Tuesday meeting, 54 in all, heard the mothers' club president, Mrs. Charles Flink, thank all concerned for the cooperation given the SJA Club's campaign to reach 100 per cent membership. The prize was won at the supper by Miss Elsa Mauffray, it was announced.

The class prize for the Tuesday meeting went to Mrs. F. Day's grade. The entrance prize was won by Mrs. Helm.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Lorraine Camors, Mrs. Clara Larroux and Mrs. Guy Bufkin.

Ivan Anderson To Address Club

The Bay-Waveland Garden Club, which will meet Thursday, Nov. 12 at the home of Mrs. A. J. Smith, will have as its guest speaker Mr. Ivan Anderson, landscape authority of Pass Christian.

He was a consultant in 1930 on the formal gardening at Mount Vernon. For some 18 years he worked with prominent landscape architects, among them, Miss Ruth Dean, Mrs. Beatrix Farrend and Miss Cary Millholland.
